

FRIDAY
APRIL 11, 2014

B

LIFESTYLE

Luckie recognized at CAES Classified Staff Awards

David Luckie, executive director of the Griffin-Spalding Development Authority, received special recognition at the 25th annual CAES Classified Staff Awards at UGA-Griffin. Luckie was recognized for his exemplary leadership and service in moving the Food Product Innovation and Commercialization (FoodPIC) Center project forward on the Griffin Campus.

The 25th Annual Classified Staff Awards ceremony was held on March 26 in University of Georgia-Griffin. This year, there were eight nominees. During the ceremony, meritorious service of 10 years or more were recognized as well as new hires. The entomology department, presented the research highlight focus for the year. At the McCall, chairman of the agriculture and consumer affairs committee, was the keynote address, the 2014 Employees of the Year were announced: Tami Boyle, center for urban agriculture; and Jason Hogan, field research services; from left) Tami Boyle, Center for Urban Agriculture; Donna Brown, Food Safety; Scott Angle, Dean of the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences; Lewayne White, Crop and Soil Sciences; Jeremy Smith, Plant Genetic Resources; and Sherrod Baden, Horticulture Services; Dr. Jerry Arkin, Assistant Dean of the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences.

Pictured are, from left, Dean J. Scott Angle, Dean of the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences; Classified Staff Employees of the Year Tami Boyle (Center for Urban Agriculture); Sherrod Baden (Horticulture) and Jason Hogan (Field Research Services); and Dr. Jerry Arkin, Assistant Dean of the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, UGA-Griffin.

